Data trusts are bottom-up initiatives that offer a vehicle for individuals and groups to pool their data rights, with the aim of achieving a common goal that relies on data sharing. These pooled data rights are leveraged by a data trustee, who is held to fiduciary standards.

On 17 December, the Ostrom Workshop will explore the ideas underpinning data trusts and how these have evolved in the UK context and beyond. To inform discussions at the workshop, participants are invited to fill in the survey at this link <https://forms.gle/oZMFpgwc2N8AFPqV7>

For further information about the background to the workshop, please see: Bottom-up data Trusts: disturbing the ‘one size fits all’ approach to data governance, Sylvie Delacroix, Neil D Lawrence, International Data Privacy Law, Volume 9, Issue 4, November 2019, Pages 236–252, available to all at: <https://academic.oup.com/idpl/article/9/4/236/5579842>. In preparation for the first salon session, this paper is recommended reading.
