Many different groups at a range of scales, such as individual faculty labs, research centers and institutes, and campus museums, are very interested in being better able to keep track of digital and digitized collections of data, samples, correspondence, and assets. As the Manager of Rights and Reproductions at the Indianapolis Museum of Art, Anne has extensive experience in evaluating DAMS, selecting a platform, and following through with the selected infrastructure.

Join us for her presentation at the networking lunch and learn more about digital asset management.

LUNCH PROVIDED: please RSVP to David Price (daaprice@indiana.edu) by February 27. Presentations are open to the public. For questions, contact Angie Raymond (angraymo@indiana.edu).
