Prepared for Environmental Change Grand Challenge: Shaping a New Environmental Resilience Institute at IU

PANELISTS: Ellen Ketterson, Department of Biology
Robert Fischman, Maurer School of Law

OCTOBER 20, 2017 • 12:00–1:30 PM
OSTROM WORKSHOP, 513 N. PARK

This roundtable discussion will introduce participants to the Prepared for Environmental Change grand challenge. Information about this initiative can be found at <https://grandchallenges.iu.edu/environmental-change/index.html>. Our focus will be to generate ideas and suggestions for collaborations to advance the grand challenge goals and to build a strong campus Environmental Resilience Institute that will outlive the 5-year funding from the grand challenge grant.

Ellen Ketterson received her PhD from Indiana University and joined the faculty at IU Bloomington in 1984. She is director of the Environmental Resilience Institute and also affiliated with the Center for the Integrative Study of Animal Behavior, the Neuroscience Program, the Cognitive Science Program, and the Kinsey Institute. She studies the evolution and ecology of behavior and physiology in a songbird species, the dark-eyed junco.

Robert Fischman's research explores the relationship between law and conservation implementation. He is one of very few professors to publish in high-impact, peer-reviewed scientific journals as well as law reviews. He writes about public land management, endangered species recovery, federalism, adaptive conservation, climate change, and environmental impact analysis.

Presentations are open to the public. You are welcome to bring your lunch. For questions, contact Allison Sturgeon (sturgeon@iu.edu; 812/855-3151).
