

THE FOURTH ANNUAL VINCENT AND ELINOR OSTROM MEMORIAL LECTURE

“Creating a Commons in a Whitewater World”

Margaret Levi

SARA MILLER McCUNE DIRECTOR OF THE CENTER FOR ADVANCED STUDY IN THE BEHAVIORAL SCIENCES (CASBS)
STANFORD UNIVERSITY

The cooperation of multi-located individuals in a whitewater, socio-technical world requires an adaptation of Elinor Ostrom's core ideas about governance of common-pool resources. Many (most?) of us now live in a highly integrated digital environment and in communities experiencing upheavals of past patterns. We face new challenges that demand the development of skills and tacit knowledge to navigate the twists, turns, and rapids we constantly confront. Such change also requires innovative forms of collaboration and governance arrangements to address the actual and current needs of societal members and engender the appropriate motivations and incentives to sustain cooperation.

DATE: WEDNESDAY, OCTOBER 11, 2017

TIME: 5:30—6:30 PM

VENUE: GLOBAL AND INTERNATIONAL STUDIES BUILDING
AUDITORIUM (GA 0001) • Reception immediately following

FREE AND OPEN TO THE PUBLIC • LIVE STREAM URL AT: OSTROMWORKSHOP.INDIANA.EDU

OSTROM WORKSHOP
INDIANA UNIVERSITY
Bloomington